Rv 21:1-8 in Devotion: The climax of this book and indeed all of history at last comes clear: the restored heaven and earth is presented to God's resurrected people. Such a magnificent future and hope calls us to rise above the ugliness and sin of this fallen world, because impenitence and a lack of vigilance can still lead to the shipwreck of our souls. At the same time, God is faithful, and so will unfailingly fulfill the purposes for which His Son became man; He will remove the curse that so sorely afflicts us.

Rv 22:1-5 in Devotion: John describes our life in heaven as having no hunger, darkness, loneliness, or pain, but rather eternal joy in the presence of the one true God. How, then, can so many people fail to see the blessedness Jesus has laid out for us along the straight and narrow way that shortly leads to unceasing bliss? In many cases, the answer is simply that people do not appreciate the greatness of God's grace and the magnificence of the glory that awaits the faithful. Inspired by God's Word and preserved by His Spirit, however, we may already rejoice with those who have gone before us.

Rv 22:6-21 in Devotion: Because John's message is about the ultimate triumph of good over evil, it is always relevant, and all the more as the world slides further into chaos and corruption. On one level, Revelation powerfully confirms what we already fear, i.e., our world and everyone in it is doomed. More profoundly, however, this book is about transcendent hope. It shows how infinitely greater God is than evil. By offering a vision of the new creation soon to be revealed, Revelation draws us on toward our blessed hope in Christ. To Him be power and glory throughout the ages!

Prayer: Blessed Redeemer, help us to keep these holy words and thereby conquer sin, death, and the devil. May we, along with Your whole Church on earth and heaven, continue praying with full confidence and a joyful expectation, "Come, Lord Jesus! Come quickly!" Amen.
